Taylor Winn XL Paintings

University of Texas at Austin: Bass Concert Hall Austin, TX

“Taylor Winn XL Paintings.” In his second solo exhibit, Winn's highly gestural, abstract paintings range to 14 feet wide and feature his signature calligraphy, bold color, bubbling and pigment migrations. The canvases conjure large organic environments - a reef, a shoreline, a famous garden. Winn's early paintings were analyzed by researchers at Stanford University, Menlo Park and Stony Brook University in published studies on fractal analysis authentication of Jackson Pollock's works.
